Номскоме, November 28тн. 1889.

Twenz was laid on the table of the Le gislative Council on Wednesday a series despatches relating to a proposed change in the system of anditing the accounts of the Colony. The first despatch is from the Secretary of State and is dated the 18th September, 1888. Lord KNUTSFORD bas "been led to the conclusion that the present system leaves much to be desired." The despatch, it should be noted, is a circular payment of public money and "feels it imone, and the system referred to is not that of Hongkong in particular but of the Crown Colonies in general. The impeachment in detail of this system is as follows:-

In the absence of any proper great difficulty has always been experienced in obtaining as Colonial Auditors men fully qualified by special technical preparation for the important duties of the position. The limited experience of each Audit Department tends to prevent the introduction of improved methods of accounting, or new expedients for with danger, whereas if the system above reventing fraud; and the frequent changes cause by the leave system have in many colonies been de-trimental to the continuity of policy and of general principles of action which should govern an Audit enartment. At the same time, the close personal relations in which the officers of the Colonial Audit Department necessarily stand to their colleagues in the other branches of the Colonial estalighment is apt to be a source of embarrassment in the official relations of the department, and a cause | the services of the Comptroller and Auditor-Auditor and Governor tend to create the same diffi. In order rightly to appreciate the bearings of the proposal as applied to this Colony it is necessary to note what the present system is. The office of Auditor-General is combined with that of the Colonial General is combined with that of the Colonial Secretary. The Auditor is therefore immediately and the control of the Colonial Secretary and the control of the Colonial Secretary. The Auditor is therefore immediately and the control of the Colonial Secretary and the control of the Colonial Secretary. The Auditor is therefore immediately superintending the Colonial Secretary. I am of opinion that the proposal would not be without its advantages, and that, as its adoption appears at present to be intended only as an experiment, there could be little objection to its trial. At the same time. I think there are manifest advantages in retaining the local audit, and my reasons are these. In the first place, greater promptitude in checking overcharges is possible than if all the accounts were forwarded to England, and action delayed until replies had been received. Moreover the additional labour thrown upon local Departments by having to ment. Whether a permanent local Auditor farnish in daulicate all vonchers, contracts, tenders, powers of attorney, letters of authority for appoint merts and increases of pay, &c., would involve a considerable increase of clerical labour; and I doubt whether the Public Works, Police, Medical and | toined. The remainder of the report is devoted to matters of detail as regards questions of cost On the 4th October the Secretary of State replied to the Governor, and treats rather scathingly a suggestion His Excellency had made for a pre-audit. He says :-

SECOND GENERANA MEETING: A Grakhana meeting under the anspices of the Pole Club was held on the Roce Course yestorday afternoon. The meeting was to have been held on Saturday last, but had to be postponed on account of the weather. This postponement to the middle of the week had, unfortunately, a bad effect on the attendance, which was not nearly so large as that of the last meeting. In this matter of course the Club had no choice, as though a postponement till next Saturdsy, in the ordinary course of events, would have been more con venient and profitable, the intervention of St Andrew's Ball this evening, for reasons which need not here be mentioned, but will nevertheless be understood, made the holding of the meeting to morrow afternoon an impossibility It is all the more to be repretted that the meet ported by the un-official members of Council and | ing was not well attended as the carrying out of an interesting and well-arranged programme The British gunboat Pigmy arrived in Colombo was well worthy of support. In the various on the 9th and the Plover on the 10th inst. They events large fields were the rule and several of them were well contested.
